FACT SHEET: The Potential Therapeutic Benefit of Mediumship Readings in the Treatment of Grief

FACTS:

- Unresolved grief can cause significant mental and physical distress (e.g., Shahar et al., 2001; Stroebe et al., 2007).
- The consensus within the bereavement literature is that grief counseling is at best ineffective while at worst harmful to clients seeking help (e.g., Larson and Hoyt, 2007; Currier, Neimeyer, & Berman, 2008).
- Pharmaceutical interventions are often ineffective for acute grief responses due to delayed efficacy.
- Spontaneous and induced experiences of after-death communications (ADCs) dramatically reduce grief (Botkin, 2000; Drewry, 2003; Hastings et al., 2002; Houck, 2005; LaGrand, 2005; Parker, 2005; Sanger, 2009).
- Pilot data suggest similar positive effects after readings with mediums (Beischel, Mosher, & Boccuzzi, 2014-15).

EXPLORATORY STUDY

There have been no systematic studies published investigating the effects that receiving a personal mediumship reading from a secular medium (one not associated with a particular religion) has on the experience of grief.

An exploratory study (Beischel, Mosher, & Boccuzzi, 2014-15) using an anonymous, on-line survey which asked participants (n = 83) to retrospectively rate their levels of grief before and after a reading with a medium indicated that participants recollect experiencing meaningful reductions in their levels of grief.

A subset (35%, n = 29) of participants also worked with a mental health professional (MHP) as part of their approach.

REPRESENTATIVE PARTICIPANT COMMENTS

“[The medium]... had a profound effect on my life and my grieving process... It has helped me in a way I never would have imagined.”

“After the reading... I had a different definition of my relationship with my mom that was more special than I could ever expect.”

“I know that I personally needed to go through counseling as well. However, the level of healing was accelerated by getting readings.”

“When my first MHP negated the reading I had with a medium, I switched to someone who understood and supported ‘my new reality’ and therefore received much more constructive help with my grief.”

 “[The medium] helped me manage the grief that has been with me for more than 20 years.”

“The medium reached my heart, the social worker my mind.”

CONTINUING BONDS

Grief is resolved when the bereaved are able to recognize their continuing bonds with the deceased (e.g., Klass & Steffen, 2017). This can occur after spontaneous ADCs (e.g., sense of presence; dreams; meaningful scents; seeing, hearing, or feeling the deceased) which are universal, normal, and often healing (e.g., Drewry, 2003; Houck, 2005; LaGrand, 2005; Parker, 2005).

Assisted ADCs during readings from mediums may also demonstrate continuing bonds between the living and deceased. The primary clinical issue around these experiences is how they can alleviate grief not whether or not they reflect actual communication with the deceased (e.g., Drewry, 2003; LaGrand, 2005; Parker, 2005).
ADVANTAGES OF MEDIUMSHIP READINGS

♦ Readings may be less frightening and easier to understand than more personal, spontaneous ADCs.
♦ The regulated environment of a reading makes it well-suited as a prescribable treatment option.
♦ A reading may be preferred for individuals who long for contact but have not experienced it.
♦ A medium serves as a non-judgmental participant who will not disparage the experiences of the bereaved.

CONCLUSIONS

The absence of effective treatments for grief and the trends from exploratory data warrant further study into the potential therapeutic benefits of mediumship readings.

The results of this research must be reviewed before they can be ethically recommended as a treatment option.

The combination of traditional psychotherapy and mediumship readings may prove to be more beneficial than either intervention separately.

REFERENCES

Disclaimer: The information presented in this publication is provided “as-is.” In no respect shall the Windbridge Research Center or any of its employees or agents, incur any liability for any damages, arising out of, resulting from, or any way connected to the use of the information provided herein. Always consult a licensed healthcare provider when evaluating treatment options or making lifestyle changes.

The Windbridge Research Center is an Arizona non-profit corporation whose mission is to ease suffering around dying, death, and what comes next by performing rigorous scientific research and sharing the results and other customized content with practitioners, clinicians, scientists, and the general public. For more information, visit www.windbridge.org

© 2017 Windbridge Research Center, Tucson, AZ.
© The content of this document is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution-NonCommercial-NoDerivatives 4.0 International License. It may be shared, copied, and redistributed provided that appropriate credit is given (BY). It may not be used for commercial purposes (NC). No modifications or derivatives may be shared (ND). For full license details, see: http://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-nd/4.0/